MAN IN HANDCUFFS REJECTED.

15 North Illinois Street.

fai. W. E. Macklin Refused His Application for Enlistment.

Major W. E. Macklin, of the local recruiting bureau of the army, says that yesterday morning a prisoner in handcuffs was brought to the recruiting office by an officer who told the sergeant in charge that the man wanted to enlist. The man accompanying the prisoner stated that the latter had been promised release from arrest if he would enlist and on these contions he asked the recruiting office to take the prisoner off his hands.

Sergeant Dobbins explained to tthe two men that men of bad character are not wanted in the army, and that he would not entertain the offer of enlistment. When Major Macklin was told of the occurrence became indignant, and says that he feels that whoever directed the officer to bring the man to the recruiting office owes both himself as recruiting officer and the nited States army an apology for what he considers an insult. Major Macklin says the first question asked an applicant for enlistment is whether on not he has ever been convicted of a felony or has been in the hands of the civil authorities, and if his moral qualifications are not of a high standard he is rejected. No trace of either the man or the officer who accompanied him could be found, and inquiries at the jail, police station, and the offices of the justices of the peace could not locate the pair.

PROMINENT MEN OF THE PARTY CALL AT HEADQUARTERS.

Chairman Fielding, of the Tipton County Organization, Talks of the Conditions.

ARE NOT INCLINED TO HUSTLE

SOME QUARTERS IT IS NOT THOUGHT TO BE NECESSARY.

After Sept. 20, However, More Interest Will Be Taken in the Campaign -Political News.

The State fair attractions in the city this week are bringing many chairmen and secretaries of the Republican county organizations to town, as well as others who are preparing to take an active interest in the Republican campaign. Many of these men visit the State headquarters in the Majestic building. One of the prominent men in town yesterday was A. T. Fielding, who with them yesterday evening and recovered is at the head of the Tipton county committee. "We are having a little trouble to get our fellows interested," he said yesterday. "The trouble is they are all busy and prosperous under these good Republican times, and they don't feel as if it was necessary to get out and hustle. They think they see more prosperity ahead, whether they hustle or not."

Chairman Fielding thinks, however, that when the fireworks are set off on the 20th and the speech-making begins the people of his county will become roused and jump into the fight. Mr. Fielding has inaugurated a new plan for getting the Republicans together in his county. He believes in campaign of heart-to-heart talks, and thinks he has evolved a plan by which this can be accomplished. The scheme is to of them? The Republicans of the precinct are invited there, and some of the candidates usually attend the meetings. They put in the time comparing notes and discussing the situation in this neighborhood and that.

Mr. Fielding says the Tipton county peo-ple will give President Roosevelt a generous reception on the occasion of his visit to Tipton next week. The event will be nonpartisan in character, and great crowds are expected in town that day.

NO SPEAKING AT BROOKVILLE.

The Brookville Republicans Will Not Open Campaign on Sept. 20.

The Republicans of Brookville were some what surprised a day or two ago, when they heard they would have a political meeting on Sept. 20. Brookville is one of the few towns of the State that will not open the speaking campaign on that date The fact is the Republicans are holding off a little while out of deference to the Democrats, who are planning to have a meeting that day. In the published list of speakers assigned to different towns on the 20th occurred the announcement that L. S. Baldwin would speak at Brookville. This was an error, as the arrangements are for Mr. Baldwin to speak at Brook, Newton county, the afternoon of the 20th. However, the Brookville Republicans were not aware that a mistake had been made, and they soon got into communication with the speakers' bureau. They felt that the announcement that they were to have a speaker on the 20th would embarrass them with the Democrats, since they had given out that they would have no meeting on that day. Later in the season the Brookville Republicans will be pleased to have speech from Mr. Baldwin or any other good speaker the committee may send, but on the 20th they will let the Democrats

A Democratic Candidate.

James R. Riggs, of Sullivan, Democratic candidate for auditor of state, is at the Grand Hotel. He has not yet begun campaigning in his district. "There is too much coal-mining and too much doing in our county to go outside of it yet," he remarked. Mr. Riggs says the miners of Sullivan county are cheerfully paying their share to the support of the strikers in the anthracite region, and they will go on con-tributing as long as it is necessary. "They believe they are right and they believe the public is with them," said Mr. Riggs.

Senator Foraker Will Speak.

At the speakers' bureau at the Republican State headquarters it was announced vesterday that Senator Foraker, of Ohio, will deliver an address at Terre Haute the present factory will be constructed. It will probably be the first of October before he begins work in Lawrence county.

Seven Democrats Present. A Democratic meeting was held at Tuxedo last night, and one man who saw the gathering asserted that there were just seven Democrats present. Charles E. Cox. former police judge, was one of the speak-ers. "I heard it said," remarked a man who knew about the meeting, "that every Democrat who attended was to receive an envelope containing $1."

ROBBED HER MOTHER.

Laura Anderson Took $73 in Savings and Hid It.

Laura Anderson, a woman twenty-eight years old, living at 415 East Louisiana street, was arrested last night by Detectives Asch and Ward on the charge of stealing $73 from her mother, Mrs. Sarah Anderson, living at 1028 Southeastern avenue. The money was taken Monday afternoon while the Anderson woman was working for her mother. It was recovered last night hidden away under the soil on a farm six miles south of Fairland.

The money was the savings of the girl's mother. It was in two pocketbooks placed in a bureau drawer in an upper room. While the girl was helping her mother do the washing, she excused herself to go upstairs to make preparations to go home. A short while later she left. She was gone but a short time when she returned. The mother then complained of the loss. The girl assisted her mother in looking for the

Yesterday morning when the mother reported the loss to the detectives, the girl and a boarder, John Anderson, were suspected. After several hours' questioning the girl confessed that she took the money and gave it to John Anderson who took it his father's farm in Shelby county and it. Asch and Ward took Anderson

A BOOM FOR THE MOVEMENT TO BUY ARSENAL GROUNDS.

The Solicitors Have Secured All but $40,000 of the Amount Necessary -A Day's Gifts.

Only $40,000 is necessary to complete the for the purchase of the Arsenal grounds, and while the canvassers for the fund feel encouraged by their successes of the past few days, they desire to impress upon everybody the necessity for immediate action if the movement is to be successful. They say that even if the time for raising money is extended to Oct. 1 there will be then only twelve days in which to collect all the money necessary-a space of time which is extremely limited for the purpose in hand. George W. Brown, who is conducting the canvass, said yesterday: "Now that subscriptions aggregate about $110,000, we feel certain that the technical school will be a go. It would be absurd to think that Indianapolis people would let the movement fail with over two-thirds of the amount necessary raised. I should think that Indianapolis has at least two three $10,000 men that have not been heard from, and several $5,000 men. If we could get several subscriptions of that size the rest would be easy sailing, as we are ounting upon a rush of small subscriptions the last few days. During the rest of the time the canvassers will go to work with renewed energy, and there is a probability that news of large subscriptions will be given out in a few days." Yesterday's subscriptions to the fund mounted to more than $1,700. George B Yandes was the largest subscriber. He signed his name to a blank that calls for $1,000. Dickson & Talbott responded liberally with a $300 subscription. Other sub riptions were received from the Varnish Company, $100; Ernest H. Tripp, $100; W. S. Wynn, $100; Horace F. Wood, $25; Comstock & Coonse Company, $25, and a number of minor subscriptions. The pro-ceeds of the garden party given by Miss Stella Adams for the benefit of the fund amount to $72.57. The moral effect of the several large subscriptions received within the last few days has been excellent, and the canvassers believe that these evidences of liberality will tend to make others come forward with

The boy said he was stealing a ride on a North Illinois-street car going to the fair grounds. He kept dodging the conductor until the car turned on Thirtieth street. Here the conductor noticed Bazel hanging to ...e running board well up in front, near the motorman. The boy said the conductor threatening to shoot if he did not get off the car. Bazel said he jumped, but missed his footing. He fell against the pavement and his legs were drawn under the wheels. The right leg was badly crushed and it was amputated above the knee at the City Hospital.

CITY NEWS NOTES.

Leon J. Bonham, son of E. A. Bonham, of 817 Fletcher avenue, a graduate last June of the State Institution for the Deaf, starts to-morrow for Washington, D. C., to take a three years' course in the government school, Gaudilett College.

It is said that Frank B. Burke, who has been ill in Jeffersonville, has now passed the critical stage and is on the road to recovery. He is able now to take light food. The operation was successful and the wound is healing rapidly. James Thompson, who was severely crushed by a street car at the Washingtonstreet bridge over White river one night two weeks ago and whose right leg was amputated at the thigh at the City Hospital, has begun to develop signs of tetanus. Thompson lives on Jones street.

DOCKERY ALSO COMMITTED CRIMES IN MINNESOTA.

He Knew Capt. Gerber in St. Paul and Shed Tears in His Presence-Plea Made by Him.

Through the work of Bertillion Clerk Ed McGuff the man arrested by Detectives Dugan and Lancaster last week after a hard fight in Blackwell's saloon is proven to be William Dockery, one of the escaped prisoners from the Nashville (Tenn.) penitentiary. Captain Gerber, of the detectives, made the identification of the prisoner more complete when he walked over to the jail and recognized the man as one he knew when he was on the police force at St. Paul, Minn.

Beginning with yesterday morning tele grams and letters began to pour into the detectives' office with information concerning the man. The first was from St. Paul, Minn., where is is said the man giving his name as Ford is William Dockery, living at 624 John street in that city. The letter said he was arrested several times and has broken jail three or four times. In one instance it was said Dockrey jumped from a train when he was in the custody of federal officers. He is wanted in Sioux Falls, S. D., and at St. Cloud, Minn. At the latter place he robbed a postoffice. At Sioux Falls he was sentenced to the penitentlary for five years on the charge of larceny, and after serving a few weeks, office and was sentenced to serve six months in the Nashville penitentiary. At the time of his arrest in Nashville he went under the name of James Thompson. In every town where Dockery has escaped officers of the law rewards have been offered for his capture. In several of the letters and telegrams received by Captain Gerber it is said Dockery is one of the worst criminals in the country. He is a desperate man and will not stop at killing.

RECOGNIZED GERBER. When Captain Gerber received a telegram from the prison authorities at Nashville yesterday telling him that the picture and measurements sent were those of James prisoners, Gerber walked over to the jail When Dockery came into the corridor he walked up to Captain Gerber smiling and asked if the latter did not recognize him Gerber looked at the man closely and said although there were certain features that were familiar, he could not place the man. Dockery continued to smile and said: "I guess you don't remember me now, for I things unpleasant for me in St. Paul. were baliff of the Police Court you had Gerber had by this time recalled the man and asked him how he came to Indianapolis. National Bureau of Identification at Wash-Since his capture Dockery has maintained silence concerning himself. He has on several occasions tried to make believe that he has been the victim of another's crime Yesterday morning in jail he said that his picture had never been taken in any place; that he had never been arrested before, The detectives think this rather queer from the fact that as soon as Dugan and Lancaster asked Dockery to accompany them to the back room he tried to get away.
